Poultry Raising Workshop

Saturday, January 19, 2013

(noon – 3:00 pm, Community Hall, plus tour)

free workshop, with experts & beginners; to learn, share, & cooperate!

We plan to begin with how to do small scale and larger raising of layer chickens or meat chickens, in Earth-friendly, sustainable ways. Then we're trying to arrange an off-island duck expert. We're also inviting our own wonderful Pender experts, to discuss protection from predators, how to raise heritage turkeys, and other wisdom they can share. Then we`ll end with a 3:00 pm tour of a Pender poultry operation. Please call 629-3825 to register for the workshop if you can, to give us a sense of numbers (just showing up is okay too).

Pender Community Transition has organized this local food skill-building event, with the support of Vancity, the CRD, and our Local Trust Committees. PCT is a cooperative alliance, helping Pender to reduce oil dependency, carbon emissions, and other damage to our Earth, and to transition with resilience through peak oil (the end of "easy" oil), climate change, and other global resource and financial challenges.
